Clarke to host family life symposium

Clarke College has received a $4,232 grant from the Iowa Board of Humanities to host a major symposium on family life this spring.

The symposium, to be held Friday and Saturday, March 27-28, will feature humanists and social welfare experts from around the country to discuss the past, present and future of families.

"Many contemporary families face crises and obstacles which threaten the stability and harmony of relationships within the family," wrote project co-chairman Marguerite Neumann, BVM, a Clarke chemistry faculty member and expert on bioethics.

"The objective of the symposium is to enable contemporary men and women, faced with the challenge of current alterations in family patterns, to consider essential values within the family, how the importance of these values has shifted from past to present and how the meaning of family values may change still further in the future," Neumann wrote.

The symposium will be divided into three major parts: Family values in the past, contemporary family values and family values in the future.

Values of the "traditional" family — a working father, a domestic mother and dependent children — included not only love, peace, serenity and stability but also obedience, self-sacrifice and acceptance of prescribed relationships.

Symposium participants will ask themselves which of these past family values are essential to the stability of marriage and family and whether the priority of values can be altered without the marriage and family disintegrating.

Aspects of contemporary family life such as two-paycheck couples, single parents and reverse role parenting have given rise to new conditions such as independent children, declining parental influence, communal responsibility and the need for individual self-fulfillment.

What are the new values of today's family? Which traditional values retain their importance and are not as important? Is there a "family" without children?

As for the future of families, participants will envision future conditions and extrapolate contemporary family values into future relationships.

Symposium speakers will be Sidney Callahan on family values in the past, Ulric Scott on contemporary family values and Florence Howe on future trends.

Callahan is an associate professor of psychology at Mercy College (N.Y.) and author of four books on women and the family; Scott is executive director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and frequent lecturer on human values within a marriage; and Howe is an author, editor of the Feminist Press in Old Westbury, N.Y., and a professor of humanities at the State University of New York.

Resident Director position redefined: Davis to resign

The requirements for the housing director at Clarke have been redefined. Because of these changes which require the housing director to live on campus, Martha Davis will resign from the position of resident housing director.

The new director of resident life will be required to live on campus and will be responsible for all aspects of resident life in the three dormitories.

"I no longer fit the job description."

—Davis

Davis has been the housing director for two years at Clarke while living off campus. Sophomore Bob Nunez feels it doesn't matter if the housing director lives on or off campus because Davis did such a fine job while living off campus.

The administration was justified when changing the requirements of the housing director, according to Davis. Since Sister Therese Mackin, Dean of Students, will be leaving Clarke, the administration thought it best to have the director of resident life living on campus.

Although Davis understands the administration's rationale for the change, she states, "I no longer fit the job description."

In the future Davis hopes to continue working in higher education, preferably in a similar capacity she fulfilled at Clarke.

Comedian and singer, Red Gallagher was the entertainment at the semester opening of the Clarke Union Monday night. The Union is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to midnight, Fridays from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m., and Saturdays from 7 p.m. to midnight.

Seniors named to Who's Who

The 1981 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" will carry the names of 20 students from Clarke College, who have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Students named this year from Clarke are: Karol Bartlett, Nancy Blume, Mary Beth Carroll, Dolores Gales, Peggy L. Hess, Mary M. Hyland, Susan K. Klein, Kay A. Krapfl, Barbara Kuhle, Janet L. Lallier, Sharon M. Lundy, Janet M. McCarthy, Margaret A. McMichael, Louise E. Nemmers, Elizabeth M. Petty, Mary Pat Rielly, Karen M. Shepard, C. Luanne Sweeney, Anne P. Whitehead, and Yvonne F. Yoerger.

Play receives ACTF awards

Clarke College's fall production of William Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" has been awarded four Certificates of Merit by the 1980-81 regional American College Theatre Festival (ACTF).

The ACTF is a nationwide competition held each year to recognize excellence in college dramatics. Clarke's four awards were the most by any college or university in the region, comprised of Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska.

Cited for artistic excellence were director Carol Blitgen, BVM, and makeup designer Karen Ryker, both of Clarke's drama faculty, and music composer Jamie Richardson of Williamsburg, Iowa, and costume designer Nancy Konrardy of Dubuque, both senior drama majors at Clarke.

Farrell featured in '81 calendar

Carolyn Farrell, BVM, director of continuing education at Clarke College and mayor of Dubuque, is featured in "The Women's Calendar for 1981," a nationally distributed desk calendar published by E.P. Dutton Co. of New York.

Farrell, who received national publicity a year ago when she became perhaps the first Roman Catholic nun ever elected the mayor of a city, is pictured on Jan. 7, the date on which she was elected last year.

The calendar, prepared by author Jurate Kazickas, features famous women and events significant in women's history.

COMMENT

1981: A fresh start

Although the holidays have left us rather frazzled in many respects, we have also been left with more optimistic feelings, particularly, of starting fresh.

By this time we have "resolved" to death. But, I would like to take this opportunity to affirm my resolutions as Courier editor, and hope that as members of the Clarke community, we may all grow from the individual changes we've each pledged for 1981.

Organization is my first concern. We have all spent enormous amounts of time getting ready to do something else. Consequently, we tend to waste the very limited time we so frequently need. I hope that the organization I have finally solidified for the production of the Courier will produce a much more professional journal, aiding readers by demonstrating how well organization improves things.

Academic respect is my second concern. Personally, I hope I will grow to appreciate my education with more sincerity in this next year. It is very easy to be locked into the "grind" of schooling, but recognizing an education's full potential is a more difficult way of thinking. I hope that through the content of the Courier readers will recognize and respect the value of education and use it to its full potential.

Societal awareness is my final concern. Watching the grim faces of the American hostages at Christmas made me want to drag them home immediately. I was so infuriated; I wanted to solve the crisis personally. Yet, I have been back at school for less than a week and already I feel myself losing contact with what is happening outside of Dubuque. I hope that through Courier editorials and caucuses readers will be educated on world issues enough to feel comfortable with them and possibly even solve a few.

Just as the Christmas spirit envelopes us in December, I hope that we may all maintain the respect and concern associated with the holiday season throughout the year.

Happy New Year and welcome back!

Search Committee defines new position

The newly appointed Search Committee for applicants for the new position of Dean of Student Development contracted a job description for the position at their meeting Dec. 11.

The candidate must prove to be a creative person with administrative ability to assume a leadership role in student personnel services, and a commitment to the goals of Clarke as a Catholic, liberal arts college. A Masters degree is required, preferably in student personnel, with a working knowledge of broad areas of student development.

The Search Committee has not reviewed any candidates yet, but they will meet every Thursday, 11:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m., explains committee member Ken Paul.

CALENDAR

An exhibit of drawings and handmade and cast papers by Cindy Starkweather-Nelson and conceptual photographs by Clayton Lee will be on display in Gallery 1550 at Clarke College through Jan. 29. The exhibition is free and open to the public.

The movie, "Oklahoma" will be shown in the Mary Josita Formal Lounge Sunday, Jan. 18, at 8 p.m. The movie is free to all Clarke students and sponsored by the residence hall government.

Sign up on the Student Activity Bulletin Board for a Double Elimination Ping Pong Tournament. Pairings will be determined after sign-up is complete. Matches will be played in the Union or Dining Room Lobby at the convenience of the players. The deadline for entry in the tourney is Monday, Jan. 19.

SKI TRIP TO CHESTNUT MOUNTAIN — Thursday, Jan. 22, 4:30-11 p.m. Details and reservation forms are on the Student Activity Bulletin Board. The trip is for beginners or pros. You pay for the skiing and CSA will provide the transportation. There are a limited number of seats available, so get your reservation form in early. No reservations will be taken after Tuesday, Jan. 20.

A continuing education workshop that will explore the nature, appeal and historical background of religious cults in America today will be presented at the University of Dubuque Theological Seminary Jan. 26-28. Robert S. Ellwood, professor of history of religions at the University of Southern California, will lead the workshop, which is open to the public.

IM Basketball begins Tuesday, Jan. 27. Details and sign-up sheets will be on the Student Activity Bulletin Board.

FLORIDA TRIP — March 7-15, Daytona Beach, Fla. You will stay at the Monte Carlo Motel — 4 persons to a room. The total cost of the trip is $210.00 and includes transportation, lodging, a trip to Disney World and other side trips. Also, $5.00 will be given to each person for a meal on the trip home. A deposit of $35.00 is due by Jan. 30 and the balance must be paid by Feb. 6. Bring your reservation and check to Mrs. Trish Folger, Room 178 MBrH. Checks should be made payable to The University of Dubuque. Please do not bring cash. See Mrs. Peacock Student Accounts for an exchange check.
